Cabarrus College Honors Faculty and Staff

Concord, N.C. — Cabarrus College of Health Sciences recently honored three faculty and staff for their outstanding contributions to the College.

Michelle Gay BS, CST was the recipient of the Educational Excellence Award which is sponsored by Cabarrus Bank & Trust. This award recognizes faculty who best exemplify excellence in teaching and contributions to the total College learning environment. Mrs. Gay was lauded by her students and peers for her “outstanding dedication and creative ideas for learning”. An alumnus of Cabarrus College, Mrs. Gay is Program Chair and lead instructor for the Surgical Technology program, and club advisor to Phi Theta Kappa and the Surgical Technology Student Association. She also serves as Legislation Committee Chair for the NC Association of Surgical Technology.

Stacey Wilson, CMA, MT/PBT, AHI, MHA was the recipient of the Anita A. Brown Leadership in Education Award which recognizes faculty who demonstrate the leadership characteristics of promoting and advancing education. Mrs. Wilson leads by example as a faculty mentor, Chair of the General Education and Health Services, Leadership and Management programs, liaison to SACS, and driver of the College’s institutional effectiveness processes. A 20 year veteran of the hospital system, Ms. Wilson was lauded by her peers for her continuous encouragement, energy, and enthusiasm.

Robin Robinson, Financial Aid Specialist, was this year’s recipient of the Staff Excellence Award. This award is bestowed upon a staff member who consistently makes a difference in the lives of others as exemplified by caring, commitment, teamwork, and integrity. Mrs. Robinson joined the Cabarrus College team in 2003. With a friendly, reassuring, and helpful approach, Ms. Robinson educates and guides students through the Financial Aid process from admission to graduation.
